

Media Release 16/10/2018

IVHL and Mind Senses Global collaborate to use AI for peacebuilding

IVHL and Mind Senses Global are pleased to announce that they will join forces to develop approaches on AI and the value of human life in the context of peacebuilding at the Basel Peace Forum in January 2019.

Robert Sadleir, the founder of IVHL, “it’s a wonderful opportunity to collaborate with an innovative firm on the important issue of AI and peacebuilding.”

IVHL is a non-profit organisation seeking to understand how lives are measured and valued for public policy purposes. We aspire to facilitate discussion on approaches and methodologies to bring transparency and improve processes to valuing a human life. We seek to develop tools so that institutions and organisations may better value human lives and allocate resources, and so individuals can better articulate their self-worth and empathise with others. More info at: <http://www.ivhl.org/>. Please contact our Communications Officer, Ms Dea Jusufi at dea.jusufi@ivhl.org.

Dr Djamila Amimer, the CEO and founder of Mind Senses Global, “it’s a great opportunity to use AI for good and collaborate on a global issue such as the value of human life and peacebuilding.”

Mind Senses Global is an AI strategy and management consultancy company. We help organisations and businesses apply AI. We develop innovative AI strategies and solutions to address complex problems. We are passionate about making AI available to everyone and using AI for good. More info at: <https://mindsenses.co.uk/>. Please contact us at admin@mindsenses.co.uk.